ARCTIC WHALE ADVENTURE

- Warm, waterproof shoes. We recommend “Muck boots” (neoprene boots)
- Warm socks and underwear. We recommend i.e. “fourth elements”
- Warm and weatherproof jacket and pants (at least two sets)
- Gloves (heating pads), warm hood, and scarf. We recommend to bring two sets in case something gets wet.
- Crocs / slippers
- Thermos
- Other clothes and personal belongings (including sun protection and sunglasses). The guest houses and hotels provide towels. There are no sleeping bags etc. needed.

- Photo- and film gear should be transported and stored in water- and shock proof cases.
- Batteries might have to be changed/charged more often due to cold temperatures.
- Photo/film: tele lens 200-500 mm, standard zoom and wide angle are used most regularly. Light conditions are usually good. It might make sense to bring a tripod for landscape/northern light photography (often visibly until about mid-April).
- For underwater photo- and film: both, macro and wide angle are good to bring, as well as strobes.

- Dry suit, hood (7-9 mm), gloves (3-finger), mask, fins, under suit, BCD, cold water regulators (2 sets), computer, other individual dive gear/spare parts.

- Passport, credit cards with PIN, insurance papers, visa papers (for travelers from countries who need to apply for a visa for visiting Greenland).

NOTE: this is just a basic list which cannot replace your individual packing list which is adapted to your personal tour. I.e. you might need driver license, if you plan to extend your stay and rent a car in Iceland, or medicine if you tend to get sea sick (on boat tours).

You are welcome to contact us in case of questions regarding what to bring on this trip.
